If however there be a doubt respecting the cause of the malady, and there are no pains of the sort above mentioned, it will be better to use no other remedy than confinement to bed, and abundance of warm drink. Weak tea, water-gruel, barley or rice water, light lemonade, apple-tea, infusions of balm, sage, c., currant jelly and water, syrup of raspberry, vinegar and water, c.; and if the child prefer sugar and water, there is nothing better. f Which last about twenty-four hours. t Vide Appendix. Should there arise a difficulty of breathing, extraordinary sleepiness, or acute pain in any part, a physician should be immediately applied to, as bleeding might be necessary without delay; and it always requires medical skill, to determine when that remedy should be employed for children. In general, one of the most alarming symptoms that can appear in a child, is that state of stupidity and sleepiness which shows the brain to be affected; although, in eruptive fever s it frequently occurs, even when they do not turn out dangerous. It would always be right to call in a physician when such a symptom appears; and, in the mean time, the feet should be bathed or fomented (whichever is least disagreeable to the patient) with warm water...
