There is scarcely any enjoyment in life comparable to the refined and elevating pleasure, which accompanies these early exercises of the mental powers. All the freshness of this peculiar happiness these associations are powerful to recall; and though each period of life, even on to the extremest age, has its own privileges and its own mission in the adorning and perfecting of character, yet this period, when we were nurtured by this august mother of us all, must, in our recollection of it, ever thrill and animate our hearts. We realize in the happy retrospect the fulfilment of the prophecy, so familiar in our college days - Haec olim memiuisse juvabit. Of this our venerable Alma Mater we may well be proud, and rejoice that we are permitted to number ourselves among her sons. For more than a century she has been the prolific and faithful parent of a progeny of large-hearted and large-minded men. We cannot examine our family record as her Alumni, without feeling what a privilege it is to be numbered as brethren with so many of those she is proud to call her sons. I cannot speak of the living, though the thought of them is vivid in my mind. I rejoice in the young men whom she has reared; and who, under the influence of her wise culture, are prepared to discharge the mission to which educated men are called in this wonderful age.
